

ROSALIND SUITS OUTDOOR SCENE.

Miss Matthison, of "Everyman," as Exhilarating as the Spring Air When She Appears in "As You Like It."

OPEN-AIR PLAY A SUCCESS.

Pastoral Character of Performance Marred by Surroundings of Electric Cars, Gongs, Students, Hand-Organs and Camera "Snapshooters."

Though surface cars rumbled along the edge of the Forest of Arden, subway explosions sounded in the distance, newspaper photographers, armed with quickfiring cameras, perched in the limbs of trees on the trunks of which Orlando carved the name of Rosalind; hand-organs in the immediate neighborhood ground out inevitable rag-time, and college students across the street kept up a disturbing din, the outdoor performance of "As You Like It," in South Field of Columbia University, yesterday afternoon was a good deal of a success.

From directly in front the raised, grass-covered platform on which the players moved and spoke looked like a green glade, though from either side it brought tender recollections of a summer beer garden.

But sturdy oaks—guess they were oaks —reared nobly through the carpenter work, green leaves rustled in a gentle breeze, the bright rays of a spring-day sun lighted the scene, and there was added reason for thankfulness in the reflections that the theater was not perfumed with Phew's Pheasant Plumes and the horny-handed usher was unheard in the land.

Society was out in its bravest array and its latest-make automobile, for, know you, that this was a benefit performance in aid of the University Settlement Kindergarten, and society, having no children of its own, needs be charitable toward the children of others.
Mr. Ben Greet, with the kindly assistance of nature, succeeded in giving a true pastoral beauty to the setting of Shakespeare's ever-green comedy, while the actors, most of them members of the "Everyman" company, lent artistic aid to the very creditable presentation.

The Rosalind of Edith Wynne Mat-thison was as natural and refreshing as the surroundings. In her impersonation of the poetic part was in every sense delightful. Her voice, wonderful for its musical quality, and her bearing, which power, her smile was like the sunshine, and the movements of her graceful figure were as free as the exhilarating air. She was a Rosalind good to look upon and good to hear.

Robert Lorraine's Orlando was chiefly notable for its vigorous good health. Mr.
Lorraine was painted like an Indian and played like a college athlete. Mr. Greet was a rather monotonous Jacques, and the Touchstone of J. B. F. Field lacked something in capriciousness. Miss Millicent McLaughlin was hardly as round and rosy as Audrey as might have been wished, but she was mighty good looking. Stanley Drewitt was excellent as the Duke, as was Mildred James as Phoebe, and the other roles were acceptably played.

Much of the time that portion of the audience not near the players could not hear what was being said, but they found evidence of enjoyment in watching the agile snapshooters shining up and down the trees.

HARLEM WISE ON "BEEF AND" NOW.

Meehan Carved and Scooped and the Ikehopperites Enjoyed Novel Feast and Surprises.

Harlem knows what a "beef and" is now. It found out as a guest of the Thirty-first Assembly District Tammany Hall organization at the first "Beef and Beans" frolic two thousand strong as masses, about two thousand strong, and swarmed the headquarters, Nos. 107 and 109 West One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street, which had been turned into a dining-room with a seating capacity of 200 for the occasion.

Ex-School Commissioner John T. Mee-han, chairman of the "Beef and" Committee of the organization, of which Isaac A. Hopper is leader and Peter A.
Hendrick associate leader and chairman, covered himself with glory, carving twenty-five and thirty-pound and serving sixty pans of beans for the hungry Ikehopperites, who seemed to spring up out of the ground and swarm over the neighborhood.

Adam Bede, the only "sinker," based butter cakes enough to pave the whole block, and capped the climax of making a characteristic speech, in which he pledged himself to take sinners for "Commercial New York," the rest of his life and visit Harlem to feed the hungry souls of the poor. He was protested to do the turn, the victims of the joke enjoyed the sell as much as the perpetrators. Even the stern Ike Hopper joined in the laugh at his expense when he discovered that the monster pie presented to him by the Dolando Club was filled with sawdust with a layer of fannel over it so that he could not have cut it with an axe.

There was good music by members of the organization on piano, banjo, violin, piccolo and concertina, and speeches by a dozen members of the speakers' club of the organization of which John T. Martin is President.
Assemblyman Abrams as head waiter had able assistants in James W. Carroll, John W. Loom, W. J. Wright, ex-Assemblyman Crabtree, Ted Kennedy, Moses Barrett, James A. DeLokey and the forty-three district captains, and the familiar cries of "beef and, make it fat," "beef and, plenty beans," and the griddle and coffee, half milk, were shouted by them quite naturally.
It would have done Patrick Dolan good to witness the enthusiasm over the "quick lunch for busy men" discovered by him forty years ago had he come out of his retirement to visit the scene. The enthusiasm made the crowd look like ten thousand, and Ike Hopper was happy. What was left after the feast was given to the poor today.

FRENCH ENVOY STUDIES JACS.

Count Rivet, Special Agent to Observe American Justice, Sees How We Deal with the Army of the Bibulous.

Count Rivet, special envoy from France to study legal methods in America, saw something of the way police court justice is dispensed before Magistrate Breen to-day. The particular line of cases that came before the Count's attention consisted of charges of drunkenness of every variety.

In each of the unfortunate individuals who were arraigned the Frenchman evinced a profound interest. Particularly did he marvel at the way Magistrate Breen delved into the circumstances surrounding the arrests.
"Ah, eet ees grandel!" exclaimed the Count, effusively, after Mary Gilhooley had been dismissed with a warning for having looked upon the beer-can while foamed. "Eet ees ze grande sight to see such justices. I marvel how zee American magistrates can gevee such attentive ears to so many of zees—what you call zem?—ah, yes, zees jacs."

"In Parree zey are whizzed away to ze Bastille before zey can tell ze wherefores of ze motives eat prompted zem to imbibe. Yes, eet ees grande. In ze American poles court zere ees greater interest taken in ze prisoners zan in France."

As he finished an aged Irishman was brought before the Magistrate.
"I found him full of 'red eye' and throwing things around in the street," remarked the policeman who had him in charge.

"You found him full of what?" asked the Magistrate, frowning.
"Full of booze," said the officer. "He had so much 'nose-paint' in him that he smelled like a new distillery. He's a bottle-rusher, one of the 'barrel-house' brand." The Magistrate imposed a small fine and the Count looked puzzled, but didn't ask any questions.

After court had adjourned the French visitor explained that his Government had sent him here to study American laws and consular jurisdiction. He will remain in New York until June, and then he will visit Chicago and other Western cities. Upon returning to France he will make a report, which will be published in the official French journal. He also intends writing a book, dealing with his observations in America.

RAGS KNEW WHERE TO GO WITH BROKEN LEG.

Now in Plaster Cast and Fox Terrier on the Books as Harlem Hospital Patient.

Harlem Hospital has a new patient.
His name is Rags, address and antecedents unknown.

Yesterday while Drs. Slevin and Donovan were seated on the front porch, Rags, on three legs, hobbled in.
She came to Dr. Donovan and put her cold little nose in his lap as though to say, "I'm only a little fox terrier, but I know where to come for a broken leg." Rags was taken back to the stable, placed on an old operating table, the bone of her left foreleg that was broken, set, and placed in plaster. Then she was regularly entered on the record with Drs.
Donovan and Slevin as her nearest reminders.

To-day Rags, who has been washed, decorated with a red cross badge and a blue ribbon by one of the female nurses, is convalescing on the front porch. Rags has been adopted and appears to like the interest taken in her.

IN TOMBS FOR MURDER.

Klausner Indicted for Killing His Brother-in-Law and Rearrested.

Charles Klausner, of No. 424 West Fifty-third street, who on Dec. 18 last shot and killed his brother-in-law, Peter Schauem, during a fight in West Forty-ninth street, has been indicted by the Grand Jury for murder in the first degree. Klausner, who has been at liberty under $5,000 bail, furnished by ex-Alderman William Baumert, was rearrested and sent to the Tombs.
Schauem was killed in a dispute about money matters.

HEROIC PLUNGE FOR NOTHING.

Mrs. Lizzie Ward Walks Off a Brooklyn Pier in Her Sleep and Captain Fitzsimmons Bravely Dives to Her Rescue.

Capt. William Fitzsimmons, of the tugboat Carroll Boy, is wondering whether he is a full-fledged hero or not, though he valiantly jumped into the chilly waters of the East River to save Mrs. Lizzie Ward, thirty-eight years old, of No. 326 Water street, Brooklyn.

Mrs. Ward weighs some 200 odd pounds and is very short. She is thirty-eight years old and given to walking in her sleep. Early to-day she somnambu-lated down Bridge street toward the river. She kept right on to the pier and via the pier stepped calmly into the river. Just at that moment Capt. Fitzsimmons was cruising about the centre of the river in the Carroll Boy. He saw Mrs. Ward walk off the pier.

"I will rescue her," he cried to the crew, and, throwing off his coat, dived into the stream. Mrs. Ward had jumped into the water about 200 yards away and was bobbing about like a cork. She was also awake and in full voice. Her cries brought scores of longshoremen to the piers with coils of rope with which they sought to lasso Mrs. Ward.

Meanwhile Capt. Fitzsimmons swam valiantly toward the lady, who could not sink, and the Carroll boy was also close at hand, and it took but a moment to gather up the floating pair in the tangle of hawsers and life ropes. Mrs.
Ward was taken to the Brooklyn Hospital and, after a rub down, sent home.

TWO KILLED IN CHICAGO FIRE.

Another Missing and Several Occupants of Big Apartment House Badly Injured in Rush to Escape from Building.

CHICAGO, May 15.—Two lives were lost in a fire that destroyed the Westchester apartment building at No. 5017 Cottage Grove avenue early to-day. One man is missing and is supposed to have perished in the flames, while two persons were probably fatally and others seriously injured by jumping from the windows.

THE DEAD.
LOUISA PHADSA, ten years old.
HARRY STRUBLEY, fifty years old.
MISSING.
SAMUEL HALL, forty-five years old.
THE INJURED.
THEODORE WHITTLE, arm broken.
PATRICK BOLGER, hands cut.
NELSON LUNDBERG, badly burned about head.

MRS. G. D. HOFFMAN, back broken and internally injured.
LOUIS HERBERT, back broken.

The dead girl was found in the hall on the second floor of the building, where apparently she had been overcome by smoke while groping her way to the stairs. The body of Strubley was recovered from the basement, where he was supposed to have been.
It is thought he was rendered insensible by smoke and drowned by the deluge of water from the engine.

The fire started beneath a grocery store which occupied the ground floor of the building and spread rapidly through the air-shafts until the entire building was ablaze. Twenty-seven families lived in the apartments on the three upper floors, and many persons narrowly escaped injury in the panic which followed the alarm. There were several brave rescues.

The property loss on building and contents is estimated at $50,000.
